

9.1.1

Lesson 9

Introduction

In this lesson, students read and analyze pages 237–240 (from “It was during Stage 3 that we met our first purebred girls” to “But you could tell that they were pleased”), in which the pack plays checkers with purebred girls and attends chapel, and the nuns announce the Debutante Ball. Students participate in discussions to analyze how Russell refines the ideas of human identity versus wolf identification and introduces a new central idea of beauty, in both wolf and human culture. Student learning is assessed via a Quick Write at the end of the lesson: How does Russell develop a central idea in this excerpt? To conclude the lesson, students complete the Stage 3 portion of the Epigraph Effect Tool, reviewing the relationship between the events of the story and the language of the epigraph.

For homework, students review the whole text and all tools, notes, and annotations as they prepare for the Mid-Unit Assessment. In addition, the students continue reading their Accountable Independent Reading (AIR) text through the lens of focus standard RL.9-10.2 or RI.9-10.2 and prepare for a brief discussion of their text based on that standard.

Standards

Assessed Standard(s)
RL.9-10.2	Determine a theme or central idea of a text and analyze in detail its development over the course of the text, including how it emerges and is shaped and refined by specific details; provide an objective summary of the text.
Addressed Standard(s)
SL.9-10.1.c	Initiate and participate effectively in a range of collaborative discussions (one-on-one, in groups, and teacher-led) with diverse partners on grades 9–10 topics, texts, and issues , building on others’ ideas and expressing their own clearly and persuasively. c. Propel conversations by posing and responding to questions that relate the current discussion to broader themes or larger ideas; actively incorporate others into the discussion; and clarify, verify, or challenge ideas and conclusions.
L.9-10.4.a, b	Determine or clarify the meaning of unknown and multiple-meaning words and phrases based on grades 9–10 reading and content , choosing flexibly from a range of

	strategies. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Use context (e.g., the overall meaning of a sentence, paragraph, or text; a word's position or function in a sentence) as a clue to the meaning of a word or phrase.</li> <li>Identify and correctly use patterns of word changes that indicate different meanings or parts of speech (e.g., analyze, analysis, analytical; advocate, advocacy).</li> </ol>

Assessment

Assessment(s)
Student learning is assessed via a Quick Write. Students respond to the following prompt, citing textual evidence to support analysis and inferences drawn from the text. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>How does Russell develop a central idea in this excerpt?</li> </ul>
High Performance Response(s)
A High Performance Response should: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Identify a central idea in the passage (e.g., beauty is universal; human identity versus wolf identification).</li> <li>Explain how Russell develops a central idea (e.g., The passage presents the central idea that beauty is universal. For example, both humans and wolves appreciate the beauty of music, which Claudette describes as a way “to pattern the old hunger into arias” (p. 239). Claudette says that the girls “understood that [the chapel] was the humans’ moon, the place for howling beyond purpose ... not for anything but the sound itself,” showing that the humans and the wolf-girls both value music for “itself,” not for its usefulness (p. 240). In the chapel, where the girls sing, they appreciate the beauty of music in the same way that they understood the beauty of the howling that they did for no other reason than to hear it).</li> </ul>

Activity 1: Introduction of Lesson Agenda

Begin by reviewing the agenda and the assessed standard for this lesson: RL.9-10.2. In this lesson, students read and annotate a section of text before participating in a discussion that focuses on how Russell develops central ideas in “St. Lucy’s Home for Girls Raised by Wolves.” Students respond to a Quick Write prompt about a central ideas in this excerpt and then complete the Stage 3 portion of the Epigraph Effect Tool.

- Students look at the agenda.

Instruct students to take out their copies of the 9.1 Common Core Learning Standards Tool. Inform students that in this lesson they begin to work with a new substandard: L.9-10.4.b. Ask students to individually read substandard L.9-10.4.b on their tools and assess their familiarity with and mastery of this substandard.

- ▶ Students read and assess their familiarity with substandard L.9-10.4.b.

Instruct students to talk in pairs about what they think the substandard means. Lead a brief discussion about this standard.

- ☞ This substandard asks students to look at word patterns and parts to help find the meaning of new words.

Activity 2: Homework Accountability

10%

Instruct student pairs to share their responses to the previous lesson's homework. (Write a paragraph in response to the following prompt: What does Mirabella's character development suggest about her identity?)

- ▶ Student pairs share homework responses.
- ☞ Student responses may include:
  - Descriptions of Mirabella's behaviors make her seem more like a wolf than a girl, showing that she is not able to establish a human identity and still has a strong wolf identification. At first, she "flatten[s] her ears to the side of her head" and "snarl[s] in the most menacing register that an eight-year-old wolf-girl can muster" (p. 228–229). Later, she "rip[s] foamy chunks out of the church pews and replace[s] them with ham bones" and "wag[s] her invisible tail" (p. 230), two behaviors that are associated more with wolves than with humans. She "cock[s] her ears," as a wolf would, when the other girls try to correct her and is "still loping around on all fours" when the other girls are learning to walk on two feet (p. 231). During Stage 2, Mirabella doesn't "even try to curb her desire to kill things" and thinks Claudette is playing a game when she tries to run away from Mirabella instead of going to the duck pond with her. Again, Mirabella behaves like a wolf rather than a girl. She continues to communicate like a wolf, too, using "the old word for tug-of-war" when she wants to play with Claudette and making "a high, whining noise through her nostrils," as a wolf would, when she wants Claudette to help her. Mirabella has only a wolf identity and cannot seem to create a human identity for herself.
  - The description of Mirabella's physical appearance presents her as someone who is suffering as a result of the mismatch between her strong wolf identification and her weak human identity. Claudette says, "Mirabella's inability to adapt was taking a visible toll" and goes on to describe her as having "teeth [that] were ground down to nubbins; her hair was falling out" (p. 236), suggesting that her emotional distress leads to physical symptoms. She explains that Mirabella hated the cooked, human food that the nuns served, so she would not eat and “her ribs were poking through her uniform,” showing that Mirabella’s dislike of human food is so strong that she is starving instead of learning to eat what humans eat (p. 236). Mirabella’s inability to develop a human identity or to continue successfully with her wolf identification causes her to suffer both emotionally and physically.

Instruct students to talk in pairs about how they applied a focus standard, RL.9-10.2 or RI.9-10.2, to their AIR texts. Lead a brief share out on the previous lesson’s AIR homework assignment. Select several students (or student pairs) to explain how they applied a focus standard to their AIR texts.

- ▶ Students (or student pairs) discuss and share how they applied a focus standard to their AIR texts from the previous lesson’s homework.

Activity 3: Reading and Discussion

55%

Instruct students to form pairs. Instruct student pairs to read pages 237–240 (from “It was during Stage 3 that we met our first purebred girls” to “But you could tell that they were pleased”) and annotate the text. Remind students to mark the text with the four annotation codes introduced in 9.1.1 Lesson 4, as well as CD for character development and CI for central ideas.

- ① If necessary to support comprehension and fluency, consider using a masterful reading of the focus excerpt for the lesson.
- ① Differentiation Consideration: Consider posting or projecting the following guiding question to support students in their reading throughout this lesson:

What are the central ideas in this excerpt?

- ▶ Students read and annotate text.
- 🗨 Student annotations may include:
  - Boxes around ferocity, meekly, complied, arias, oculus, nave, conjure, rudimentary, inducement, debutante, sophisticate, captivity, purebred, volunteer, moon, bicycle, and dance.
  - Star (*) near
    - “The lake-water was reinventing the forest and the white moon above it, and wolves lapped up the cold reflection of the sky.” (p. 239)
    - “Long before we could understand what the priest was saying, the music instructed us how to feel.” (p. 239)

- “We understood that this was the humans’ moon, the place for howling beyond purpose,” as evidence that both humans and wolves appreciate beauty for its own sake rather than for its usefulness (pp. 239–240).
- CI near
  - “There were so many things that we could do wrong!” (p. 237) (human identity vs. wolf identification)
  - “I felt sorry for them. I wondered what it would be like to be bred in captivity, and always homesick for a dimly sensed forest” (p. 237). (human identity vs. wolf identification)
  - “Being human is like riding this bicycle.” (p. 238) (human identity vs. wolf identification)
  - “The brothers! We’d almost forgotten about them” (p. 238). (human identity vs. wolf identification)

  - “I should have been excited; instead, I felt a low mad anger at the nuns” (p. 238) – Claudette
  - “[Jeanette] was the first of us to sign for her library card, too” (p. 238–239) – Jeanette
  - “Jeanette blew her nose into a nearby curtain” (p. 239) – Jeanette
- Question mark (?) near
  - “I wasn’t ready to claim a common language with Jeanette” (p. 239)
  - “On Sundays, the pretending felt almost as natural as nature” (p. 239)
  - “She showed us how to pattern the old hunger into arias” (p. 239)
  - “A black shadow, running behind the watery screen of pines” (p. 239)
- Exclamation mark (!) near
  - “always homesick for a dimly sensed forest, the trees you’ve never seen” (p. 237)
  - “Jeanette was learning how to dance” (p. 237)
  - “We pedaled faster” (p. 238)
  - “Things had been so much simpler in the woods” (p. 238)
  - “Mouth shut—shoes on feet! Mouth shut—shoes on feet! Mouthshutmouthshut” (p. 238)
  - “She was the first of us to sign for her library card, too” (pp. 238–239)
  - “The lake-water was reinventing the forest and the white moon above it, and wolves lapped up the cold reflection of the sky” (p. 239)

Post or project the questions below for students to discuss. Instruct students to continue to annotate the text as they read and discuss, using the codes CI and CD as appropriate. Also remind students that they should keep track of central ideas in the text using the Central Ideas Tracking Tool.

Instruct student pairs to read pages 237–238 (from “It was during Stage 3 that we met our first purebred girls” to “Mouth shut—shoes on feet! Mouth shut—shoes on feet! Mouthshutmouthshut”), and answer the following questions before sharing out with the class.

Provide students with the following definitions: ferocity means “savage fierceness,” meekly means “humbly patient; overly submissive,” complied means “did what had been asked or ordered,” rudimentary means “very imperfectly developed,” inducement means “incentive,” debutante means “a young upper-class woman who has begun going to special parties where she will meet and be seen by other people from the upper class,” and sophisticate means “a person who has a lot of knowledge about the world and about culture, art, literature, etc.”

① Students may be familiar with some of these words. Consider asking students to volunteer definitions before providing them to the class.

- ▶ Students write the definitions of ferocity, meekly, complied, rudimentary, inducement, debutante, and sophisticate on their copies of the text or in a vocabulary journal.

① Differentiation Consideration: Consider providing the following definitions: volunteer means “person who does something without being forced to do it,” moon means “large round object that circles the earth and that shines at night by reflecting light from the sun,” bicycle means “a wheeled vehicle that a person rides by pushing on foot pedals,” dance (v.) means “move one’s body in a way that goes with the rhythm and style of music that is being played,” and dance (n.) means “a social event at which people dance.”

- ▶ Students write the definitions of volunteer, moon, bicycle, and dance on their copies of the text or in a vocabulary journal.

How do the interactions between the purebred girls and the wolf-girls on page 237 develop a central idea of the story? Use textual evidence to support your response.

- ☞ The interactions develop the central idea of human identity versus wolf identification.
- ☞ Student responses may also include:
  - The interactions between the purebred girls and wolf-girls highlight the differences between the two cultures and show how difficult it is for the wolf-girls to identify themselves as part of human society. For example, the purebred girls come to St. Lucy’s as volunteers to “tutor [the girls from St. Lucy’s] in playing” (p. 237), showing that the girls have not yet mastered basic human games. They also make mistakes on purpose in order to give “[the girls from St. Lucy’s] an advantage” (page 237). Some of the wolf-girls do not understand human interactions designed to make others feel better. For example, Lavash says, “These girl-girls sure is dumb” when she keeps winning at checkers, not realizing that the purebred girls are allowing the wolf-girls to win (p. 237).

- It makes the girls from St. Lucy’s “nervous to meet new humans” because there are “so many things that [they] could do wrong” (p. 237). This shows that the wolf-girls are not confident about their ability to function in human society yet.
- Claudette feels “sorry” for the purebred girls and wonders “what it would be like to be bred in captivity, and always homesick for a dimly sensed forest, the trees you’ve never seen” (p. 237), showing that she still feels a strong connection to her own wolf culture and has more of a wolf identification than a human identity at this point.

① Differentiation Consideration: Consider posing the following scaffolding question:

How does the phrase “always homesick for a dimly sensed forest, the trees you’ve never seen” help clarify the meaning of the word “captivity”?

💬 The girls who were raised in captivity have never seen the trees of the forest, so they are clearly not wild; they have been raised by people.

① Consider drawing students’ attention to their application of standard L.9-10.4.a through using context to make meaning of a word.

Why do the nuns “congratulate” the girls on learning to ride bicycles?

💬 The nuns see riding a bicycle as part of “being human” (p. 238). Riding a bicycle is a human activity and it represents being part of human society. Once the girls learn to “be human,” they will “never forget,” just as once they learn to ride a bicycle they will never forget: “Being human is like riding this bicycle. Once you’ve learned how, you’ll never forget” (p.238).

What is the impact of the statement “We pedaled faster”?

💬 The statement “We pedaled faster” shows that Mirabella, who has not learned to ride a bike, and can only “run after the bicycles, growling out [the girls’] old names” is being increasingly excluded from the pack. The pack is leaving Mirabella behind, both literally, as the girls ride away, and figuratively, as the other girls become more and more comfortable with human culture (p. 238).

Why does Claudette feel “a low mad anger at the nuns” when they announce the dance?

💬 Student responses may include:

- Claudette feels “a low mad anger at the nuns” because she says the nuns “knew we weren’t ready to dance with the brothers; we weren’t even ready to talk to them” (p. 238), showing that Claudette does not feel she has the social skill needed for human interactions. Claudette's anxiety about the dance is clear when she begins to practice in secret and repeats to herself, "Mouth shut—shoes on feet! Mouth shut—shoes on feet! Mouthshutmouthshut" (p. 238).

- Claudette feels that "Things had been so much simpler in the woods," showing that she still misses her old life and resents the nuns for making things more complicated (p. 238).

Lead a brief whole-class discussion of student responses.

Instruct student pairs to read pages 238–240 (from "One night I came back early from the closet" to "But you could tell that they were pleased") and answer the following questions before sharing out with the class.

Provide students with the following definitions: arias means "songs in an opera," oculus means "circular or oval window," nave means "the main part of the interior of a church," and conjure means "bring to mind; recall."

① Students may be familiar with some of these words. Consider asking students to volunteer definitions before providing them to the class.

- ▶ Students write the definitions of arias, oculus, nave, and conjure on their copies of the text or in a vocabulary journal.

How does Claudette's description of Jeanette's activities on page 238–239 (from "She was sitting in a patch of moonlight" to "I wasn't ready to claim a common language with Jeanette") develop a central idea in the text?

💬 Student responses should include:

- The passage develops the central idea human identity versus wolf identification.
- The passage shows that Jeanette is still in transition from being wolf-like to human. Jeanette is "reading from one of her library books" (p. 238) and crying, as a human would, because of a beautiful line in the book, but she blows her nose on "a nearby curtain" because she has not yet fully adapted to human culture (p. 239).
- Claudette reads the line in Jeanette's book, but will not "claim a common language with Jeanette" (p. 239) because she is unwilling to form a bond with Jeanette over the human experience of reading and finding beauty in a text.

① Differentiation Consideration: Consider posing the following scaffolding questions:

What is the "line in the book" that causes Jeanette to cry?

- Jeanette reads, “The lake-water was reinventing the forest and the white moon above it, and wolves lapped up the cold reflection of the sky.” (p. 239)

How do the word choices in the line in Jeanette’s book impact the tone of the passage?

- The author uses figurative language to personify the “lake-water” reflecting the trees, and describing the wolves as drinking or lapping “up the cold reflection of the sky” (p. 239), creating a sad tone.

What is “the old hunger” to which Claudette refers on p. 239?

- Student responses may include:
- The hunger is a desire for living in nature and being part of a pack again. Claudette describes how the “[c]louds moved behind the frosted oculus of the nave,” showing that she is separated from nature now but still finds it beautiful (p. 239).
  - The hunger is a desire for family and being with the wolf pack, her old family. Claudette describes how the clouds remind her of her mother, saying, “The mother, I’d think, struggling to conjure up a picture. A black shadow, running behind the watery screen of pines” (p. 239).

- ① Differentiation Consideration: If students struggle to answer this question, consider posing the following scaffolding question:

Based on the meaning of “the old hunger,” what other words could replace pattern in this sentence? Explain your response.

- The girls are using their desires to be with the wolf pack and in nature (“the old hunger”) to create songs and beauty (“arias”), so words such as create, form, develop, or make could replace pattern.

Why does Claudette describe “the mother” as a “black shadow” on page 239?

- Student responses may include:
- Claudette describes the mother as a “black shadow” because she is hidden from Claudette’s view. The mother is “running behind the watery screen of pines,” so Claudette cannot see her clearly through the trees.
  - Claudette is “struggling to conjure up a picture” of her mother, meaning that her memory of her mother is fading as she adapts to human life.

What relationship does Claudette establish between the chapel and the moon?

- Both are places “for howling beyond purpose. Not for mating, not for hunting, not for fighting, not for anything but the sound itself” (p. 240). The music in the chapel and the wolves’ howling both express the beauty that both humans and wolves appreciate for its own sake rather than for its usefulness.

How do the words Jeanette reads (p. 239) relate to the girls’ “howling beyond purpose” (p. 240) at the chapel?

- Student responses may include:
  - Both the words and the howling remind the girls of their old life. The words describe wolves “lap[ping] up the cold reflection of the sky” (p. 239) as they drink from a moonlit forest lake. The girls understand the chapel to be “the humans’ moon, the place for howling beyond purpose ... not for anything but the sound itself” (pp. 239–240), where humans sing just as the wolves used to howl at the moon. The girls think of singing in the chapel as they think of howling, as an activity “beyond purpose” (p. 240).
  - The girls respond emotionally to both the words and the music. Jeanette “sniffle[s] and point[s] to a line in her book” to show that she recognizes the beauty of the moonlit scene (p.239). The music also has an emotional effect on the girls. Claudette says, “[t]he music instructed us in how to feel” and says that the choir director “showed [them] how to pattern the old hunger into arias” (p. 239). When the girls sing, they “howl along ... hurling every pitted thing within [them] at the stained glass,” meaning that they are expressing all of their emotions (“every pitted thing within us”) in their music, singing so loudly that it as though they are “hurling” the music “at the stained glass” (p. 240).

① Differentiation Consideration: If students struggle, consider posing the following scaffolding questions:

How does Claudette say that the chapel and the moon are similar?

- Both are places “for howling beyond purpose,” meaning they are places to appreciate beauty for its own sake rather than for any particular purpose, such as “mating ... hunting ... fighting” (p. 240).

How is howling at the moon different from other types of howling, according to Claudette?

- It has no purpose other than “the sound itself” (p. 240), while other types of howling can be used “for mating ... hunting ... fighting” (p. 240).

What new central idea emerges from the descriptions of language and music in this passage?

- Student responses should include:

- The central idea of beauty emerges in this passage.
- Claudette and Jeanette appreciate the beauty of the language in Jeanette's book and of the scene it describes, which is familiar to them because of their former lives.
- Both the wolf-girls and the humans appreciate the beauty of music in the chapel as something "beyond purpose" (p. 240).

Lead a brief whole-class discussion of student responses.

Activity 4: Quick Write

10%

Instruct students to respond briefly in writing to the following prompt:

How does Russell develop a central idea in this excerpt?

Instruct students to look at their annotations to find evidence. Ask students to use this lesson's vocabulary wherever possible in their written responses. Also, remind students to use the Short Response Rubric and Checklist to guide their written responses.

- ▶ Students listen and read the Quick Write prompt.

① Display the prompt for students to see, or provide the prompt in hard copy.

Transition to the independent Quick Write.

- ▶ Students independently answer the prompt, using evidence from the text.
- 🗨 See the High Performance Response at the beginning of this lesson.

Activity 5: Epigraph Effect Tool

10%

Instruct students to work in pairs to use the Epigraph Effect Tool to consider the relationship between the events of Stage 3 and the Stage 3 epigraph. Remind students to review their notes, annotations, and tracking tools related to "St. Lucy's School for Girls Raised by Wolves" to support their work.

- ▶ Students work in pairs to complete the Stage 3 portion of the Epigraph Effect Tool.
- 🗨 See the Model Epigraph Effect Tool below for possible student response.

Lead a brief whole-class discussion of student responses.

Activity 6: Closing

5%

For homework, instruct students to review the text, the completed portions of the Epigraph Effect Tool, and all tools (including the Character Tracking Tool introduced in 9.1.1 Lesson 3 and the Central Ideas Tracking Tool introduced in 9.1.1 Lesson 5), notes, and annotations in preparation for the Mid-Unit Assessment. Review the Mid-Unit Assessment prompt:

Choose one epigraph. Analyze the relationship between that epigraph and the girls' development in that stage.

Also for homework, students should continue to read their AIR texts through the lens of focus standard RL.9-10.2 or RI.9-10.2, and prepare for a 3–5 minute discussion of their texts based on that standard.

Homework

Review the text, the other completed portions of the Epigraph Tool, and all tools, notes, and annotations to prepare for the Mid-Unit Assessment. Review the Mid-Unit Assessment prompt:

Choose one epigraph. Analyze the relationship between that epigraph and the girls' development in that stage.

Also, continue reading your Accountable Independent Reading text through the lens of standard RL.9-10.2 or RI.9-10.2, and prepare for a 3–5 minute discussion of your text based on that standard.

This makes it clear that the girls do not yet feel comfortable in human society and do not have strong human identities. Claudette says she "felt sorry for" the purebred girls who had been "bred in captivity," showing that Claudette's wolf identification determines how she understands the purebred girls. Claudette reports, "Jeanette was learning how to dance," suggesting she is developing a human identity as she learns to participate more fully in human society.
p. 238	Human identity versus wolf identification	When the girls learn to ride bicycles, the nuns say, "Congratulations! ... Being human is like riding this bicycle. Once you've learned how, you'll never forget,"

		suggesting that this activity represents an important step toward participating in human society. Mirabella cannot ride a bicycle and has to “run after the bicycles, growling out our old names” as the girls pedal faster to get away, showing that Mirabella is having trouble keeping up with the other girls both figuratively (developing a human identity) and literally (she cannot run as fast as the girls can pedal). Claudette reports, “The nuns decided we needed an inducement to dance,” suggesting that the nuns recognize that the girls are not fully part of human society yet and need some reason to leave their wolf identifications behind and assume a human identity.
p. 239	Beauty as a universal element of culture	Claudette and Jeanette cry at the description, written by a human, of wolves in a forest: “‘The lake-water was reinventing the forest and the white moon above it, and wolves lapped up the cold reflection of the sky.’” Both the human author and the wolf-girls appreciate the beauty of the scene and the language. Claudette says, “Long before we could understand what the priest was saying, the music instructed us in how to feel,” showing that the wolf-girls understand the beauty of music, a human art form.
pp. 239–240		Claudette describes the chapel as “the humans’ moon, the place for howling beyond purpose,” showing evidence that she recognizes that both humans and wolves recognize the need for beauty just for its own sake and not for any particular use.
