Tell It Again! Flip Book Introduction

This Tell It Again! Flip Book contains images that accompany the Tell It Again! Read-Aloud Anthology for Immigration. The images are in sequential order. Each image is identified by its lesson number, read-aloud letter (A or B), and the number of the image within the particular read-aloud. For example, the first image in Read-Aloud 1A is numbered 1A-1. Once you have worked your way through the book to the last page, you will flip the entire book over to view the second half of the images.

Depending on your classroom configuration, you may need to have students sit closer to the Flip Book in order to see the images clearly.

The People

IN CONGRESS, JULY 4, 1776.

Unanimous Declaration of the Thirteen United States of America.

When in the course of human events it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them; a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.—That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, — That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience has shewn, that no good purpose is served by insurrection and civil war, unless upon extraordinary occasions. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object, evinces a design to reduce us under absolute Tyranny, it is our duty to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for our future Security. — Now, therefore, the united Colonies by these presents do solemnly publish and declare, that they are united together in one State, free, sovereign, independent States, absolving themselves from all allegiance to the British Crown, and that all future attempts by the King to invade our borders or to bring injury to our Colonies, shall be regarded as entirely unjust, and that we do hereby severally take up arms against him, his heirs and successors, and against every person who shall aid or abet him, in such violations, and that we do hereby mutually pledge our Lives, our Fortunes and our sacred Honor, to support and defend this Union, against all enemies, foreign and domestic; that we will maintain it, until death, and that we will secure to ourselves and our posterity the Blessings of Liberty.

Congress OF THE United States

held at the City of New-York on

IN CONGRESS, JULY 4, 1776.

The unanimous Declaration of the thirteen united States of America,

When in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation. — We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. — That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, — That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly, we have suffered long from abuses of this kind, but a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same arbitrary system, has required that we must cease to be a People subject to another; but we must first declare the causes which impel us to the separation.
